No naps, mayor may be watching

▶ TTC collectors reminded not to sleep on job ▶ Comes on heels of rumours Ford may tour system unannounced

The TTC has sent a warning to its subway collectors not to get caught sleeping on the job.

On Monday, collectors received a voice message telling them not to be the poster children for lazy transit workers.

"Somebody within the organization, an employee, has gone to the mayor's office stating that employees are sleeping on the job. Bottom line is, we've already been through this, we have all learned our lesson, so let's collectors not be the poster children with respect to sleeping on the job. Everybody be alert and we have nothing to worry about," said the message.

The voice communication, delivered to about 300 TTC collectors in their booths, was issued by the collector's division, not TTC chief general manager Gary Webster, said TTC spokesman Brad Ross.

It followed rumours that Mayor Rob Ford was planning a tour of the TTC,

"It's a good idea that Ford get on the system to find out what the real problems and challenges are, not only what the employees find but what the public experiences ... and it's not strikes."
TTC UNION HEAD BOB KINNEAR

something transit officials say they know nothing about.

There were no specific allegations that anyone had been snoozing on the job, Ross said.

"The intent was to remind everybody of the importance of doing their jobs," and that applies whether the mayor is in the system or not. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Cops track down dangerous dog

Canine chewed through one victim's winter coat and sweater to his arm

Toronto police have seized a dog believed responsible for attacks on three people at a Vaughan convenience store Wednesday.

The German shepherd, an eight-year-old female weighing 90 pounds, was picked up Thursday in North York after police received an anonymous tip, according to York police Det.-Const. Alex Samitz.

The dog, Krysia, was taken by animal control officers and placed in quarantine. "We have to notify the health department but we're told the dog had its shots in November," Samitz said.

The owner of the dog was apparently visiting relatives in Vaughan when he stopped by the convenience store.

His name was not immediately released, and there was no immediate word on whether he faces any charges.

The attacks left a 66-year-old man with wounds to his face and arm and also sent a 16-year-old woman to hospital with a shoulder injury.

Tony Palazzolo was attacked as he left the Vaughan convenience store, where he buys a newspaper every day.

As he left the store, a German shepherd at the entrance outside lunged at Palazzolo, biting him on the face.

Palazzolo, who stands only 5-foot-3 and weighs 120 pounds, put up his left arm to protect himself.

"Thank God I put my arm up," he said Thursday morning while recovering at his home, where he and his wife, Josie, have lived for 20 years.

The attacks

York Regional Police say the same dog attacked three people at the same store within a matter of minutes.

- Police say the incident began at about 8:40 a.m. Wednesday, when a man wearing a dark jacket and dark tuque entered the convenience store on Glen Shields Avenue, leaving the dog untied outside.
- The dog first bit a 16-year-old female passerby on the shoulder, then turned on Palazzolo.
- The dog also lunged at a 41-year-old woman as she tried to go into the store. She was able to get away and was not hurt.
- Investigators have taken surveillance video from the store to see if this will help them with their investigation.

Court acquits man in death of infant son

Opinions from various medical experts filed with the court found the boy may have died of natural causes

Tears streamed down Dinesh Kumar's face Thursday as he walked out of court finally free of the baby killer label that has haunted him for 19 years.

Kumar, 44, has endured the finger pointing and stony silence from members of his community since he was convicted in 1992 of criminal negligence causing the death of his five-week-old son Gaurov.

He was charged with second-degree murder but accepted the lesser plea under a multitude of pressures, including threat of deportation to India and separation from his wife and older son, he said.

"I never forget him. He (will) always stay with me until I die. I miss him lots."
DINESH KUMAR ON HIS DECEASED SON, GAUROV

One of the biggest factors in pleading guilty was the prospect of testimony from now-disgraced pathologist Dr. Charles Smith, who concluded Gaurov died of shaken baby syndrome, Kumar's lawyer said. Kumar was told Smith was like "a God" in court and it would be nearly impossible to challenge Smith's opinion.

So Kumar took the plea and was sentenced to 90 days served on weekends. Kumar said in the almost 19 years since then, he has thought about Gaurov every day.

"He's always in my heart," Kumar said.

The Court of Appeal for Ontario acquitted Kumar on Thursday after both the Crown and defence called for the conviction to be set aside. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Politics

- Sources say George Smitherman has turned down an offer from the premier to run in the Oct. 6 provincial election.
- Smitherman has said, however, that he plans to run again for office at some point in the future.

Former Ontario deputy premier and Toronto mayoral runner-up George Smitherman has a new gig — fill-in radio host on Newstalk 1010.

Smitherman will sit behind the microphone Monday on the afternoon drive-home show normally hosted by John Tory — the former Conservative leader who faced Smitherman from the opposition benches at Queen's Park.

The station announced it as a one-off appearance. But 1010's Mike Bendixen said in an email release Thursday that listeners can expect to hear more of Smitherman, if Monday goes well.

"We'll see how he does, and whether he likes it," Bendixen wrote. "If it goes well we will discuss (him) being the replacement host for Mr. Tory.

"We are also working with George to participate as a regular contributor to our morning show with John Moore."

Smitherman, who quit Premier Dalton McGuinty's cabinet and gave up his downtown Toronto seat to run for mayor, lost to councillor Rob Ford Oct. 25 after a bruising campaign. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

United Way surpasses 2010 goal

While many Torontonians are still recovering from a debilitating recession, those who could dug deep to help their neighbours and make their city better, raising a record $113.2 million for United Way.

The announcement that the 2010 campaign goal had been surpassed by $200,000 set off thunderous applause and cheers at Thursday's celebration at the Metro Toronto Convention Centre, which was attended by 2,000 volunteers, donors, supporters and front-line agency workers.

"We're thrilled," said United Way Toronto president and CEO Susan McIsaac. "The people of Toronto answered our call." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Split over subway, LRT: Poll

Underground light rail could be the compromise between Torontonians who support building more subways and those who back the TTC's Transit City light rail plan.

An independent poll of 550 Torontonians by Leger Marketing found the city is almost evenly divided among those who support the two forms of transit.

Forty-four per cent prefer subways to light rail, compared with 40 per cent who support building LRT.

But when asked to choose between keeping light rail and building it underground or stopping light rail and building subways instead, an overwhelming majority supported light rail.

Fine cause for white wardrobe

On Jan. 27, Torontonians clad in white will make a statement — and not just a fashion statement.

The Wear White for Windfall campaign raises awareness for the more than half a million people living in poverty in Toronto.

"It focuses on reminding everybody that there are people in our own city that don't have adequate winter clothing," said Helen Harakas, Windfall's executive director. "We wanted to put it in the dead of winter for that reason."

Windfall, an award-winning charity, provides new clothing and basic necessities to shelters and agencies.

"I think there is a sense of pride when you get something brand new that no one else has ever had before," said Karl Lohnes, Metro's home-decor columnist and one of the celebrities featured on posters throughout the TTC. "I think that that is part of what helps people who are a bit down, or homeless, or being retrained for work."

Lohnes says the campaign has helped raise his own awareness about the plight of the poor.

"It's not the one street person that you see when you go to get your coffee in the morning; there are a lot more people that it affects," he said. "That's the big thing that hit home to me."

Breaks to more than offset HST: Ministry

RENE JOHNSTON/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Finance Minister Dwight Duncan's department is predicting that tax credits and energy rebates introduced to soften the HST will result in savings for most Ontarians.

[illegible] will see net savings: Documents

Most Ontario consumers will see a net benefit from the harmonized sales tax in 2013 because of new tax credits and energy rebates, according to Ministry of Finance documents.

The documents, obtained by The Canadian Press, suggest the 13 per cent HST would not cost Ontario households $385 million more by 2013 as originally projected last June.

Instead, the revised figures from the Ministry of Finance state the single sales tax will result in $490 million in savings for consumers in the third year.

That's good news for a Liberal government trying for a third term this October, which has been under increasing fire over the unpopular tax.

Speaking in Ottawa on Thursday, Premier Dalton McGuinty admitted there was strong opposition to the HST, but said the tax would make Ontario businesses more competitive and help create more jobs.

The latest figures take into account a series of tax credits introduced or enhanced by the Liberals to offset the HST, and 10 per cent electricity bill rebates introduced Jan. 1, which will last until 2016.

"It's only natural for people to say: 'Do we have to adopt the HST now?' The answer is yes we do."
PREMIER DALTON MCGUINTY

The Opposition said the Liberals were forced to give consumers a break to help their re-election chances.

"The simple fact that they've had to introduce these rebates shows that Ontario families are suffering as a result of this $3-billion tax hike," said Progressive Conservative revenue critic Lisa MacLeod.

The documents show the government expects businesses will pass along 90 per cent of their savings — about $1.9 billion — in the form of lower prices by 2013.

The New Democrats questioned the government's calculations.

"The government's projections are far-fetched at best," said NDP Leader Andrea Horwath.

Robbers pose as cops in Ajax home invasion

Police looking for three men with heavy European accents Don't believe burglary was a random act

They were wearing bullet-proof vests, drove up in a car with red flashing lights, and had a siren to boot.

But instead of executing a bogus search warrant, Durham police say three men posing as cops entered an Ajax home early Tuesday, handcuffed six people inside, and ransacked the home in search of money.

"As they approached the house, the residents inside saw the red flashing lights," said Dave Selby, with Durham Police. "I would not call them replica police uniforms, but at 12:30 at night, these people believed they were police."

"You can only imagine how unsettling it would be to have strangers show up at his door after midnight, posing as police."
INGO PUDER, LONG-TIME RURAL DURHAM RESIDENT

The robbery occurred just after midnight at a residence near Westney Road North and Concession Road 5. Durham police were not called to the scene until three hours later, when the victims freed themselves and set off the house alarm.

Long-time residents of the rural community have expressed concern over the recent events.

Ingo Puder, 66, said he's lived on his farm on Concession Road 5 for almost 40 years and he'd never heard of such a crime there before.

Puder said his 110-pound Labrador dog Storm quickly lets him know when there are strangers on the property, although a dog is no match for three armed men.

"He's a warning system, a good warning system especially at night," Puder said.

He said he imagines the area was targeted because of upscale developments moving into the area.

Terror suspect fights extradition

U.S. wants Canadian to face grilling over suicide bombing that killed soldiers ◗ Life sentence possible

The lawyer for a Canadian man suspected of supporting a terrorist group says his client will fight extradition to the United States.

"I think any Canadian would want to stay in Canada to answer to charges," Bob Aloneissi said outside court.

Sayfildin Tahir Sharif, 38, was arrested by the RCMP in Edmonton at the request of the FBI.

Sharif, who is married and has children, appeared in court briefly on Thursday accompanied by three sheriffs.

The case was put over to Jan. 27.

Aloneissi said he met Sharif for the first time Thursday.

"We are all trying to understand the charges against him. It will take some time, I think, for him to understand them as well," he said.

"They are probably some of the most serious charges that an individual can face."

Sharif, a slender man with black hair and a close-cropped goatee, appeared in court wearing blue jail coveralls.

He showed no emotion during the hearing and chatted briefly with his lawyer.

Mosul fallout

- Sharif is charged in the United States with supporting a multinational terrorist network that took part in a suicide bombing that killed five soldiers in Iraq. He faces a life sentence if convicted.
- The bombing in April, 2009, near an operating base in Mosul also injured several other soldiers.
- The U.S. Department of Justice says Sharif was charged based on evidence gathered in Canadian court-authorized wiretaps and search warrants.
- The FBI says the terrorist group is also believed to be responsible for another suicide bombing that killed seven Iraqis on March 31, 2009, at a police station.

▶ Prime Minister Stephen Harper speaks to employees during a visit to the Bell Textron plant Friday in Mirabel, Que.

Looking back at five years of Harper's rule

Tories formed minority government in 2006 Have changed country's priorities, weathered political tumult

He won office the first time under the banner of "standing up for Canada." Now he travels the country promising to be "here for Canada." But after five years in charge, what has Prime Minister Stephen Harper meant for Canada?

On a policy level, the consensus seems to be — not much.

"When they came to power, they probably thought they would change it more than they've been able to," said Tom Flanagan, who is Harper's former chief of staff.

The realities of minority governments, the dual prorogations of Parliament that killed scores of government bills and the need to put economic management above all else saw little national change over the last five years.

What debate has existed has been over Canada's role in the world, not at home, suggested Antonia Maioni, director of the McGill Institute for the Study of Canada, at McGill University in Montreal.

Canada's environmental record, the war in Afghanistan and even the fight for a seat on the United Nations Security Council have marked the last five years, she said.

"What we've not had is a real conversation on the future of Canada as a federation and the future of Canada in terms of a more long-term strategy."

The political landscape of the country has shifted as Harper led the Tories out of rural ridings, into medium-sized cities and, in the 2008 election, into the suburbs of major ones.

"There has been over the course of his political leadership, no question, a slow and steady march of Conservative gains incrementally in those different constituencies," said Allan Gregg, chairman of the polling firm Harris Decima.

But in the great game of politics, it's still unclear what Harper would like the chessboard to look like in five years.

"Is the end game getting a majority? I don't know because he is doing pretty well with a minority. Is the end game transforming Canada on some level? Some of the things Harper has done and is doing point to that in incremental fashion," said Maioni.

"He's playing his cards very close to his chest about what his vision is in this."

Harper's most memorable moments

Liberals down but not beaten

- Fifth anniversary of Tory win in January 2006 election
- Grits are still struggling to make up for lost ground

Prime Minister Stephen Harper is reputed to harbour a long-term goal of wiping the Liberal party off the face of Canada's electoral map.

As a former senior adviser once put it, the objective is to do to the Liberals what the Roman republic once did to the "evil empire" of Carthage during the long-ago Punic Wars.

"They defeated Carthage totally, razed the city to the ground and sowed salt in the fields so that nothing would grow," Tom Flanagan wrote before the 2008 election. As it turned out, 2008 was not the Canadian equivalent of the final Punic war.

The Liberals, under Stéphane Dion, scored their worst share of the popular vote in history. Yet they managed to take 77 seats, enough to prevent Harper from a majority.

The Liberals were in turmoil, plotting to forge a coalition as they were trying to dump Dion. A year later, Michael Ignatieff declared Harper's time was up. Had Harper forced an election at either of those moments, he may well have obliterated the self-proclaimed natural governing party once and for all.

Instead, he gave the Liberals time to regroup. And on the fifth anniversary of the Tory win in the 2006 election, Flanagan concedes Harper is unlikely to deliver a death blow to the party in the next election.

Kidnapped as infant, woman finds real mom

- Mother and daughter reunited after 23 years
- Police trying to identify and arrest kidnapper

A woman who was kidnapped as an infant 23 years ago in New York City says finding her real mother "felt like a dream."

"I'm so happy. At the same time, it's a funny feeling because everything's brand new. It's like being born again," said the woman, who was named Carlina White by her parents but was raised in Connecticut under the name Nejdra Nance.

The 19-day-old baby Carlina was kidnapped in 1987 after her worried parents took her to Harlem Hospital with a fever.

A woman who was dressed as a nurse abducted the baby; no suspect was ever arrested.

"I'm sitting here and I'm in a daze, thinking, 'Is this for real?' I missed the last 23 years of her life. I have to take it all in, for now just take it day by day."
JOY WHITE, MOTHER OF CARLINA WHITE

Carlina's distraught parents, Joy White and Carl Tyson, feared they would never see their daughter again. Carlina, or Nejdra, was raised by an abusive drug addict, she told the New York Post. She said she had long suspected that she wasn't the woman's real daughter.

When she got pregnant herself at 16, she asked her mother for a birth certificate so she could get prenatal care. Her mother could not provide one.

She gave birth to a daughter who is now six, and when she recently moved on her own to Atlanta, Georgia, she decided to seek out her birth parents.

The Center for Missing and Exploited Children helped her connect the dots. Then the centre contacted Joy White.

Topless girls, a teen, a house like a brothel

Silvio Berlusconi's the life of Italy's wiretap party

Gossip-loving Italians are devouring a feast of sexy leaked wiretaps about their premier, Silvio Berlusconi.

In some purported conversations, Berlusconi's house is described as a brothel with topless girls dancing around.

The 74-year-old premier himself is described as a "caricature" by one guest and as having gained weight and having become ugly by another.

The wiretaps were ordered by prosecutors as part of their prostitution probe targeting Berlusconi and his alleged encounters with a Moroccan teenager, known as Ruby.

In one purported wiretap, Ruby tells a woman she has been frequenting Berlusconi's house since the age of 16, but that Berlusconi "thought I was 24 years old."

A man on another wiretap says: "There were orgies … all girls ... at the end were topless, only in their panties,"

A Berlusconi crony is heard telling a young woman to dress up as a sexy nurse and pretend to examine the premier as a joke.

Berlusconi has denied wrongdoing and denounced the violation of his privacy.

Two Ontario cities on list of top 7 smartest

Stratford and Windsor in running to be named the most intelligent community on the planet

Two Ontario cities have made the list of the Top Seven Intelligent Communities in the world and are in the running to be named the most intelligent community on the planet.

Stratford and Windsor join Chattanooga, Tenn., Dublin, Ohio, Eindhoven, Netherlands, Issy-les-Moulineaux, France, and Riverside, Calif., on the list.

The Intelligent Community Forum announced its list at the annual conference of the Pacific Telecommunications Council in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Criteria

According to the group's website, the award is given to communities "with a documented strategy for creating local prosperity and inclusion using broadband and information technology to attract leading-edge businesses, stimulate job creation, build skills, generate economic growth and improve the delivery of government services."

The ICF looks at the social and economic growth of cities worldwide with the goal of identifying communities that stand as models for other communities looking to become Intelligent Communities.

The Top Seven were chosen from a list of 21 picked in October and was based on analysis of the nominations by a team of independent academic analysts.

ICF judges will now visit each of the finalists before they make their choice for the Intelligent Community of the Year in June.

Newborns met inhumane end, grand jury says

Complaints about abortion 'house of horrors' went nowhere even though 46 lawsuits filed against doctor

A filthy abortion mill where prosecutors say babies were delivered alive and killed with scissors would have been shut down long ago if not for extraordinary failures by state regulators, who had not inspected it since 1993, a grand jury report charges.

Dr. Kermit Gosnell, 69, a family practice physician with no certification in gynecology or obstetrics, was charged Wednesday with eight counts of murder in the deaths of seven babies and one patient.

Nine employees also were charged, including four with murder.

▶ Dr. Kermit Gosnell

Pennsylvania Department of Health and other agencies allowed Gosnell's "house of horrors" to persist for decades, with baby body parts on the shelves and clogging the plumbing, a 15-year-old high school student performing intravenous anesthesia, and Gosnell's wife, a cosmetologist, performing late-term procedures.

"Had state and local officials performed their duties properly, Gosnell's clinic would have been shut down decades ago," the grand jury wrote. "If inspectors had looked solely for violations of Pennsylvania's abortion regulations, there would have been ample grounds to revoke the approval of Gosnell's clinic as an abortion provider — as was demonstrated when DOH inspectors finally entered the facility in February 2010."

Mafia takes hit in U.S. crackdown

127 associates facing charges including a killing during a botched robbery and a double shooting in a bar fight

More than 120 organized crime associates face charges including murder, extortion and narcotics trafficking in one of the largest Mafia crackdowns in FBI history, prosecutors announced Thursday.

U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder said the 127 defendants include high-ranking members of the Gambino and Colombo crime families and the reputed former boss of organized crime in New England. All five of New York's five major crime families were targeted.

PENSION PLANS

Recovery long way off: Survey

As some industries continue to struggle with their post-recession recovery, it will likely take longer than expected for Canadian pension plans to become fully funded again, according to a new survey.

The poll suggested it is overly optimistic to think defined benefit pension plans will return to a surplus in the next two years, while their investments struggle with high global unemployment and the ongoing debt crisis in Europe.

The survey by pension consulting firm Towers Watson indicated fund managers expect interest rates to stay low, which means defined benefit plans need more money to secure payments made to pensioners. "We're out of the recession, but we're not really into growth," said Janet Rabovsky, director of investment for Towers Watson.

The survey Thursday indicates that the majority of fund managers are shying away from risky equity markets, and instead focusing on infrastructure and real estate.

Wound path appears to be below the area that controls movement

Rep. Gabrielle Giffords was able to stand up with assistance, the latest milestone in the congresswoman's recovery as her family prepares to move her to Houston for extensive rehabilitation from a bullet wound to the brain.

Giffords' family hopes to move the Arizona congresswoman Friday to TIRR Memorial Hermann hospital in Houston, where her husband lives and works as an astronaut.

Her progress was evident Wednesday as she stood on her feet with assistance from medical staff, hospital spokeswoman Janet Stark said.

In rehab she will have to relearn how to think and plan. It's unclear if she is able to speak or how well she can see. And while she is moving both arms and legs, it's uncertain how much strength she has on her right side.

"She is a fighter like nobody else that I know."

Prepaid the better way, experts say

Many young adults burdened by student loans, credit card debt

Prepaid credit cards can be a good way to ease young adults into financial independence, but users — and their parents — ought to be aware of the costs and limitations that come with them, experts say.

Many major banks offer prepaid cards, onto which a set amount can be loaded in advance. Most purchases can be made in the same way as an ordinary credit card and can also be used to draw funds from automatic banking machines. The difference is that once the amount is gone — it's gone. That is, until it is topped up again.

A lot of prepaid cards are explicitly targeted toward youth. For instance, MuchMusic offers a prepaid Mastercard, and has a page of parents' frequently asked questions on its website. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Be aware

- Many prepaid cards charge a few dollars every time the card is reloaded.
- Prepaid cards sometimes have limitations for renting a car, booking a hotel room or making an online purchase. Also, they may not help in establishing a credit history.
- A better option is secured cards where the preloaded amount is treated as a security deposit against a credit limit.

Watchdog says Ottawa short of cuts target

6.8 Ottawa announced last March it would realize $6.8 billion in savings over five years, mostly through attrition.

Canada's budget watchdog has cast doubt on the government's stated plans to cut operating budgets by $300 million this year.

Three-quarters into the fiscal year, only about $180 million in savings have been identified, according to Parliamentary Budget Officer Kevin Page.

Part of this may be because the government has refused to release all the information on how it plans to reduce the operating budgets of departments, the report states.

But in a survey of half the public service, the PBO says plans to cut the number employees have met with limited success. Almost all the personnel reductions identified so far have been negated by Corrections Services Canada's plans to hire more than 4,000 people, it says.

Overall, there is limited evidence current plans will meet the government's target for employee attrition, it says. Ottawa said it expected to save $300 million this year, $900 million next, and $1.8 billion in 2012-13 and subsequent years. THE CANADIAN PRESS

5 MINUTES WITH: KEVIN LOBO

In his new book, Brighter Red, the India-born author challenges Canadians to move beyond our social issues in order to reach our full potential.

You write that being born in Canada is like winning the lottery in life. What do you mean by that?
For immigrants like me, especially coming from Third World or developing nations, Canada's like a golden mean that attracts us and the longing with which we come to this country is like a culmination of a long struggle. So for those who are born here it's like a golden birthright.

And yet you outline a number of social issues that you've identified as problematic. Is there one you felt to be most pressing?
The one that is closest to my heart, coming from India, is child poverty. It's something that you see rampant on street corners everywhere there. To come to Canada, to a rich nation, and then to see the same issues is surprising. In a rich nation like ours, children go to sleep hungry, children go without meals, children are really deprived of the simple pleasures of life.

You encourage your readers to help you think out a "new Canadian conscience." What exactly does that entail?
Someone I sold the book to at Chapters said, "We Canadians have an attitude of an ostrich with our head in the sand." And that's exactly right. Let's get our heads out of the sand. Acknowledge there is a lot of work to be done on the simple issues of poverty, child poverty, cost of education.

You say aside from this new consciousness, we need an "equality for all approach." Do you really think that's a realistic or tenable solution?
The equality for all approach is so well embodied in our healthcare system. That's the model I use. I know we have our challenges there, but 99 per cent of Canadians still live by the system. So the equality for all approach should be a basic human living condition.

Has anyone from the government been paying attention to what you're saying?
No. I have had a chance to speak to a few politicians, but they don't seem to be in the mood for that.

Why should we pay attention?
With their head-in-the-sand attitude, I find if you present people with real facts they start thinking about these issues.

Worth mentioning

The warmest year on record is a three-way tie: 2010, 2005 and 1998.

So says the UN weather agency, providing further evidence Thursday that the planet is slowly, but surely, heating up.

Average temperatures globally last year were 0.53 C higher than the 1961-90 mean that is used for comparison purposes, according to the World Meteorological Organization.

That's a bit lower than what the U.S. National Climatic Data Center announced earlier this month, but the World Meteorological Organization also uses figures based on data collected by Britain's Meteorological Office and NASA.

"The 2010 data confirm the Earth's significant long-term warming trend," said Michel Jarraud, WMO's top official. He added that the 10 warmest years after records began in 1854 have all occurred since 1998. The average worldwide temperature for the 20th century was 13.9 C.

But rising global temperatures over the last century are causing climate experts to worry. Most atmospheric scientists attribute the change to carbon dioxide and gases released into the air by gasoline-burning engines and other industrial processes. The gases tend to trap heat in the atmosphere like a greenhouse.

I think it's better than hosting the G20. Instead of destroying buildings and smashing windows, it would be about building an infrastructure. People get really into sporting events. Look at Vancouver.

I'm sure it would be good for the economy, but how much will it cost to create the infrastructure? Will people benefit from it? Could the athlete's dorms be turned into affordable housing afterward?

Love kills laughs

Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin debate the merits of No Strings Attached
Supporting cast much more interesting than two leads in this rom-com

Richard Crouse: I don't know about you Mark, but I don't think Natalie Portman has to worry about No Strings Attached "Norbiting" her chance of an Oscar nomination. It has charm here and there, but is so bland I don't even think Academy Award voters will even remember she was in the movie by Monday when their ballots are due. Thoughts?

Mark Breslin: I think the movie proves she has a gift for light comedy – very, very, very light comedy. I agree the movie is bland, but the good news is that its weightlessness is an antidote to the legion of overstated rom-coms. For the first half of the picture, I found myself applauding its gentle, loping rhythms. Then I fought to stay awake.

Plot synopsis

▶ No Strings Attached is the new R-rated dating comedy from director Ivan "Ghost Busters" Reitman. Ashton Kutcher and Natalie Portman play 20-something Los Angelenos who define their relationship as "friends with benefits" until they realize they're falling in love.

▶ Ratings:
Richard's: ●●
Mark's: ●●½

RC: I hear you. The sex-is-easy, love-is-hard premise works well enough when she and Kutcher are arranging trysts by text and keeping it informal but when the l-word — that's love — rears its head the movie becomes predictable and dull. Perhaps it's because the leads aren't nearly as interesting as the supporting cast.

MB: Yes, yes! Great supporting cast! Kevin Kline, Lake Bell, Olivia Thirlby and many more inject the movie with the verve it needs. But now for the big question, Richard — Ashton Kutcher. Well?

RC: He looks good in a suit and can deliver a line but I really thought his role could have been played by any number of actors — Paul Rudd and Josh Duhamel maybe — and it wouldn't have made any difference to the finished product. Back to the supporting cast though. You're in the comedy biz. Can't you get Lake Bell a better gig than this. She's fantastic.

MB: Let me call the folks over at Little Mosque and see what they can do … As for Kutcher, I prefer him in sleazy cynical roles. There's nothing more boring than a reformed cad. How much do we blame director Ivan Reitman for all of this? Should he start taking lessons from his son?

RC: Not yet. He is, after all, the guy who directed Ghost Busters, so as far as I'm concerned he's alright by me. I'm willing to write No Strings Attached off as a noble but so-so attempt at a modern rom-com. My fingers are still crossed for Ghostbusters 3.

Doc on Spector present a complex character

ADAM NAYMAN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

"It was never my intention to try Phil Spector on film," says Vikram Jayanti, and indeed, anybody looking for a rigorous presentation of the facts about whether or not the legendary music producer killed actress Lana Clarkson at his Los Angeles home may be perplexed by Jayanti's intricate cinematic presentation.

"I thought I would try to do a 'wall of film,' the same way that Spector was famous for his 'wall of sound,'" Jayanti said.

He thus culled together 50 hours of personal interviews with Spector and then interspersed footage of the producer's 2007 murder trial.

The images are frequently overlaid with critical texts praising the producer's sonic legacy and backed by selections from the songs themselves. At times the film pauses for full-length vintage performance clips of artists like Ike and Tina Turner. The result is a documentary that's also an act of sensory overload.

"The idea was to do what he did (with his music) to layer elements so that simple things take on complex relationships," Jayanti said.

Certainly, his treatment of Spector is complex. He's often very funny, but also comes off as egomaniacal and borderline sociopathic.

He's more invested in burnishing his own mythic reputation — in the process slagging everyone from Paul McCartney to Tony Bennett — than taking stock of his personal failures and culpability in the death of another human being. (Spector was ultimately found guilty in 2008, after his first case ended in a mistrial and is currently in federal custody).

"He says things that are factually not true, but he believes them as if they are," says Jayanti, who explains that there were no ground rules for his interviews but still chose not to press Spector about Clarkson's death. "What's interesting, though, is that the un-truths contain a kernel of truth in them. I could have kept correcting him, but it seemed much more interesting to let him be himself."

▶ A scene from the movie Dogtooth, which opens next week.

Strange taken to new heights

ADAM NAYMAN
@METRONEWS.CA

A bleak psychodrama about a family whose domestic life is so sheltered from the outside world that they might as well be aliens, Yorgos Lanthimos' Dogtooth is simultaneously one of the year's funniest and most terrifying movies.

"I like contradictions," grins the Greek-born filmmaker, who brought the film to TIFF in 2009. "It's good when things clash and crash together."

The source of the horror and the comedy is one and the same: The adolescent protagonists have been conditioned to be oblivious to their own weirdness. For instance, they're unaware that their grasp of language is completely tenuous — they've been told, for instance, that a "zombie" is a "little yellow flower."

"Everyone has sat around and had these thoughts about words," says Lanthimos. "You know, like why does this word mean one thing, and this one mean another. So I tried to make my film about that, in a very strange way."

Very strange indeed. As the film progresses, the family's rituals grow ever more bizarre and perverse. The film's sexual explicitness is all the more shocking for the fact that the characters are painfully innocent about what they've been compelled to do.

"The actors really trusted me, which was important," says Lanthimos. "What we did was very physical. We didn't go into the minds of the characters: we tried to realize everything through movement."

He's equally hesitant to talk about his film's meaning: many have read Dogtooth as a critique of totalitarian regimes.

"(Those things) were not what I had in mind" he says. "I like making movies that are open, so for me, it's fun to read all these different interpretations."

Actor enjoys the rush of doing good stunts for an action movie His Mechanic co-star Ben Foster wasn't quite as excited to do a 30-storey drop

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

No stranger to physically demanding roles, action star Jason Statham's previous career as a member of the British diving team has come in surprisingly handy.

"It was very good for me to do what I'm doing now, because a lot of the training is all pointed in a direction where it allows you to gain aerial awareness," he explains. "So if you're doing a lot of stunts, you have a very great sense of distance and timing. It's definitely paid off."

The diving background helped for his latest film, The Mechanic, which called for Statham and co-star Ben Foster to careen down a 30-storey office building, supported by a single rope. The star of the Crank and Transporter movie series insists it was a blast, though maybe not as much for his co-star.

"He was pooping himself," he says of Foster. "Just being strung up with Ben to see how scared he was when we was doing the down the side … It makes me sound a little bit sadistic. It's great."

But aside from taking glee in a co-star's trepidation, Statham admits stunt-heavy roles are just that much more satisfying for him.

"When you do something good, there's a great excitement to it," he says. "It's always more rewarding doing something in terms of the action.

"You do a good dramatic scene, there's no one clapping for that. If you do a good stunt and it works out well, there's a great euphoria on set," he said. "That just doesn't happen in dramatic scenes. You just don't get that immediate reward."

A remake of the 1972 Charles Bronson film of the same name, The Mechanic asks Statham to step into some storied shoes, but he's not worried.

"There's always the comparisons that are going to be made, and it's not the first remake that I've done," he says. "We did a remake of The Italian Job years ago, and that was such, again, a classic movie that some people would think should never be touched. But you know, it was a very decent job. And it's the same with this."

Though he always seems to be working, Statham doesn't have anything on his plate at the moment. And that's because he's waiting for a particular phone call.

"I'm just waiting for Stallone's next film, The Expendables 2," he says, referring to the anticipated sequel to last summer's action hit.

▶ Sir Anthony Hopkins stars as an exorcist in The Rite, which opens next Friday.

Hopkins knows what scares you

Oscar winner takes on demons in The Rite Says religious certainty can be just as scary as a horror film

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

"I know what scares people, I know what's scary on film, because that's what I do. I guess I've got a knack for it, but it doesn't mean I'm a scary person. My wife's not scared of me. I'm scared of her."
ANTHONY HOPKINS

At 73 years old, Sir Anthony Hopkins is trying to live by a new life philosophy: expect nothing.

"Expectation leads to resentment and depression, so I have no expectations," he says. "To be realistic is a great freedom. I have no illusions about my position in this world as an actor or anything like that. No illusions at all. I'm very realistic. Reality is a very liberating thing."

But this recently discovered enlightenment doesn't mean Hopkins isn't doing anything anymore. The notoriously busy actor has several projects lined up, as well as a number of completed films out this year, including his latest, The Rite.

In the religious thriller, Hopkins stars as a veteran exorcist fighting on the front lines for the Vatican. But it wasn't a project he immediately jumped at.

"I thought I didn't want to play another spooky guy, you know? I wasn't sure," he says.

Then, of course, there was the subject matter. Let's just say religious certainty doesn't exactly jibe with Hopkins' newfound philosophy.

"I don't know what my beliefs are, really, about any of it," he says. "Anyone who says they know — 'I believe in the truth.' Oh, the truth? A lot of trouble that got us into over the last thousands of years. Hitler knew the truth. So did Stalin, so did Mao Zedong, so did Torquemada in the Spanish Inquisition. They all knew the truth, and that caused such horror. Certainty is the enemy. Human beings? We know nothing."

But despite any qualms Hopkins has with Catholicism, he's more than happy to play a character who's more than a little scary — and the man who is still best known for playing Hannibal Lecter knows a thing or two about being scary.

"You have fun with it. I know what scares people, I know what's scary on film, because that's what I do," he says. "I guess I've got a knack for it, but it doesn't mean I'm a scary person. My wife's not scared of me. I'm scared of her."

Part of Hopkins' fresh sense of calm has come from not taking Hollywood too seriously, he insists.

"What is so liberating about this whole business is when you see the big movies are going to come out, and then you see them up in Malibu in a little triplex theatre a week later on a scratched negative and you think, That's it?" he says. "It's a great liberation thinking that none of it is important. That's a great feeling — nothing matters anymore."

Way Back connects with audiences

The Way Back
Genre: Drama
Director: Peter Weir
Stars: Jim Sturgess, Ed Harris, Colin Farrell
●●●½

An extraordinary epic produced outside of the Hollywood system, Peter Weir's The Way Back is another impressive cinematic achievement for the chameleon-like director.

Once again feeling unlike anything the filmmaker has done before — but still maintaining his sense of humanism and visual splendor — the movie opens in the little-discussed Russian Gulag internment camps of the Second World War.

Weir follows a group of political prisoners who escape from one camp only to find themselves traversing frozen Siberian mountains and the Gobi desert to find freedom. The audience feels the physical and emotional exhaustion of the characters, and comes out the other side with a deep sense of appreciation for the survivors' experience.

The performances are amazing from top-to-bottom, with a skeletal Ed Harris earning special notice for his weary and defeated token American, Jim Sturgess proving once again to be an amicable lead with surprising depth, and Saoirse Ronan showing the emotional gravity of an actress well beyond her years.

The movie is not an easy sell since it revolves around physical torment and anguish. However, it's so expertly crafted that you'll genuinely feel like you've shared in the extraordinary experience. Films that connect this deeply are rare and for that alone The Way Back should be applauded.

PHIL BROWN

The Illusionist
Genre: Animation
Director: Sylvain Chomet
Stars: Jean-Claude Donda, Eilidh Rankin, Duncan MacNeil
●●●●

Simply put, The Illusionist is a beautiful work of art and stunning proof of the aesthetic wonderment of traditional hand drawn animation from director Sylvain Chomet (The Triplets Of Belleville). Based on an abandoned screenplay from the late Jacques Tati, the film tells the story of a magician whose antiquated art has been eclipsed by '60s pop and now struggles to afford a meager lifestyle in Edinburgh. Vital viewing for any film fan. PHIL BROWN

Incendies
Genre: Drama
Director: Denis Villeneuve
Stars: Lubna Azabal, Melissa Desormeaux-Poulin.
●●●

Denis Villeneuve's adaptation of Wajdi Mouawad's award-winning play about a pair of Montreal twins compelled to return to their dying mother's Middle Eastern homeland is a finely crafted piece of cinema. But, perhaps owing to its roots on the stage, Incendies feels as contrived as it does accomplished. The script's ultimate, metaphorically loaded revelations of familial trauma hit with less force for being so carefully telegraphed in advance. ADAM NAYMAN

Attenberg
Genre: Drama
Director: Athina Rachel Tsangari
Stars: Ariane Labed, Giorgos Lanthimos, Vangelis Mourikis
●●

A young woman discovers her sexuality while tending to her father as he succumbs to a terminal disease in Attenberg. There are several interesting moments that feel uncomfortably candid and suggest autobiography, but Athina Rachel Tsangari directs with such cold dispassion that it's impossible to get deeply involved. As a result, the movie lacks the emotional resonance that the material demands. PHIL BROWN

Men with no company a timely tale

The Company Men
Genre: Drama
Director: John Wells
Stars: Ben Affleck, Tommy Lee Jones, Chris Cooper

The Company Men marks writer/director John Wells' transition into film following a successful career in television (ER, The West Wing).

His debut is about a group of emasculated men suddenly downsized from cushy jobs.

Wells carefully interweaves characters from all levels of the issue, from Tommy Lee Jones' high ranking executive struggling with his conscience to Ben Affleck's young buck who loses his BMW and private office to hang drywall and move back in with his parents.

Wells captures pain of unemployed limbo well and many will sadly identify with the material. His script might wrap things up a little too cleanly for such a painful story, but since the subject matter will cut close to the bone for many viewers, forcing a little optimism is forgivable.

ACNE
Eczema
Psoriasis
Rosacea
Rashes

By Dr. C. Hammoud Ph.D.

■ I had terrible Acne for 3 years and tried Benzoyl Peroxide, Proactiv, Aloe Vera and others. After 4 days taking the Bell natural product #60 it started to clear up my skin. My skin changed from terrible to beautiful. Mylene Theriault, 19, Sorel-Tracy, QC ■ In 2 days my son's face completely cleared up of acne. My son is 15 and suffered for 3 years. We used many products like laser, Clean Clear, Neem that did not work or burned his skin. Veronica Marden, Seminole, TX ■ Unbelievable acne free beautiful skin Last couple of years I had acne and tried every product like Murad, Proactiv and antibiotics. Results with #60 were unbelievable. Thanks for giving me beautiful skin and my self-esteem. Nelisa Royer, 28, Doral, FL ■ Within 6 days eczema cleared up completely. I believe #60 addresses the cause internally instead of the symptoms. Latifa Boutshik, 43, North York, ON ■ I had severe psoriasis over 95% of my body. Last 5 years I have stunned every doctor and dermatologist. I spent tons of money on remedies. After I got Bell #60, I've never seen anything work as fast in my life. Within 2 days I saw my skin clearing up. I'm speechless. It was inexpensive compared with what I spent before. Jessica Shantz, 25, Dawson Creek, BC ■ All statements made on the Bell website are sent by delighted users. All are real people. Most have listed phone numbers and can be called for advice. No money is paid to them. Their reward is the relief they are getting. All say #60 works within days not months, not years. It's more effective than what they used before. It is less expensive (some acne suppliers ship monthly and charge monthly, which may amount to large sums yearly). No side effects were reported on #60.

Guaranteed better than all others they used say dozens of delighted users with full names and towns on the Bell website. Works by cleansing blood inside rather than attacking skin from the outside and leaving the actual cause untreated. Here are a few examples:

STRESS & ANXIETY
Seasonal Affective Disorder

By Dr. C. Hammoud, M.H., Ph.D.

■ Recommended for its calming relief from chronic stress, anxiety, chronic fatigue, lack of motivation, inadequate feelings, compulsive disorders, eating disorders. ■ Helps to restore adrenal balance, mental well being. True evidence (Skeptics can call these people): ■ For about 3 years I was stressed out. After starting #66 I' m fine. I don't get headaches anymore caused by stress. I'm more effective at work. I'm amazed. It changed my life around. Gerasimos Kallimikos, 25, Astoria, NY ■ At times was completely non-functional. After taking 2 capsules within 1 hour "the fog had lifted". I take some daily and had no relapse for 4 months. Maureen Lavallie, 67, Red Deer, AB ■ No sedatives needed anymore. After taking #66 I felt a calm sense of being not sedated as before but full of energy and able to cope balancing my many jobs, children, household and going to school.Highly recommended! Diane Lovato, 54, Norwalk, CA ■ I have tried other calming products. for 10 years. Bell #66 is the best. OwenA. Miller, 49, Rossiter, PA ■ Read the Bell website for many more testimonials and other important information.

SNORING? SLEEP APNEA?

Most older men and many women snore and have sleep apnea (gasping for air) :

To my surprise, after taking Bell Snoring & Sleep Apnea Relief #23 I really didn't snore or gasp for air anymore. I sleep through the night and feel rested and refreshed in the morning. Mark Wilson, 40, Hudson, NH ■ Sleep apnea capsules worked first night! For last 15 years I had sleep apnea and my doctor made me buy a CPAP machine, which I could not use. Finally Bell #23 helped the first night and every night thereafter. Like a miracle. Unbelievable. Karen Braun, 67, Glace Bay, NS ■ For 20 years I was waking up frequently gasping for air. During the day I would start napping every time I would sit down, because I was tired. Since taking Bell #23 sleeping 6 hours is heaven. It made a substantial change in my life. Mary C. Myrick, 62, Jackson, MS ■ It is such a joy not having to use the CPAP machine. I have had sleep apnea for 10 years. I was skeptical about Bell Snoring & Sleep Apnea Eze #23. After using it for 3 weeks my wife says there is no more snoring or gasping for breath or stoppage of breathing. It is such a joy to be able to roll to left or right with no hose or mask to deal with and can get up with no restrictions. Thank you Bell for a great relief. I suggest anyone with these problems to try it. You will be overjoyed with the results. Wayne Burse, 63, Beamsville, ON

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

There are three ways a song can end.

MYSTERY OF THE BIG FADE-OUT

There can be a defined, abrupt conclusion — something radio people call a "cold" ending. Other songs come to an end with a nice last chord that slowly disappears into silence. The third way to end a recording is to have the catchy part of the song continue while simultaneously dropping the volume until there's nothing left. That's called the fade-out. Thousands upon thousands of tracks end this way.

But who came up with this idea? The thought came to me the other day when I caught myself listening to some music while at the mall. Fading a song into nothingness is peculiar to recordings; you almost never, ever see it done in live performances.

No one knows who invented the technique. The fade-out couldn't have appeared any earlier than the late 1940s, when magnetic tape — an invention of the Nazis brought to America by allied soldiers — replaced the practice of one-take mechanical recordings cut directly onto a master copy. For the first time, recordings could be edited, multi-tracked and, yes, faded out.

So why did this catch on? Some composers and arrangers felt liberated because for the first time, they didn't have to come up with a concrete way to end a song. Lazy, perhaps, but it certainly solved the problem of having to find an ending.

Another possibility is that producers or artists decided that the fade-out was the perfect way to emphasize the hook of the song — the signature melody line or construction that forms the basis of the composition — over and over again as the track ended. That way, they theorized, the hook would be burned into the listener's mind.

Another theory subscribed to by musicians, artists and managers was that fading out a song using the hook left the impression that the song never ended. Something so glorious and dramatic shouldn't have an end. The song was eternal and could be revisited ad infinitum simply by moving the needle back.

My theories are a lot less esoteric. Back then, radio stations often refused to play songs that were longer than three minutes. The quickest way to cut a long song down to the maximum allowable length was simply to fade it out. The other thing to consider is that the fade-out caught on just because it sounded – well – cool.

And it stuck.

Rogen gets a surprise from Lucas

Seth Rogen had a rather bizarre meeting with Stephen Spielberg and George Lucas recently, during which the Star Wars mastermind was obsessed with the end of the world.

"George Lucas sits down and seriously proceeds to talk for around 25 minutes about how he thinks the world is going to end in the year 2012, like, for real. He thinks it," Rogen said.

"Lucas is going on about the tectonic plates, and all the time Spielberg is, like, rolling his eyes, like, 'My nerdy friend won't shut up, I'm sorry.'"

KEN MAKES ANOTHER PLAY FOR BARBIE!

Ever since Barbie and Ken split seven years ago, rumours have been swirling about whether or not Ken has continued to carry a torch for his ex!

Well, if his antics at Whistler Blackcomb ski resort are any indication, he wants her back!

Ken showed his true colours as he aced the formidable 7th Heaven run. With a posse of fans cheering him on, Ken came flying down the mountain with an enormous red banner, attached to his ski poles, trailing in the air behind him. In big bold letters it read: "Barbie, you're the only doll for me."

Now, if that ain't love.

SHOULD BARBIE TAKE KEN BACK?

Skipping school cool with Paltrow

PEOPLE Gwyneth Paltrow sometimes needs a little time alone with her daughter, Apple, even if that means letting her skip class.

"I'll probably get kicked out of our school for admitting this, but I let Apple stay home yesterday. I just needed to be with her. We went out to lunch, we went to the beauty salon, we were together," Paltrow tells Good Housekeeping magazine.

She also opened up about life with Chris Martin.

"Marriage is hard. Chris and I have had our ups and downs, big-time," she says. "I definitely have to coax things out of him when we talk. You know, he's British, so it's a different lexicon totally. But you have to communicate. Otherwise there's no relationship." METRO

Know when to fold 'em, says Simon Cowell

PEOPLE Simon Cowell reportedly isn't a big believer in traditional education.

"All my life I had to teach myself. I never really had a proper education. I wasn't born with any skill. I didn't learn anything from school," he says, according to Hollyscoop.

Instead, he learned his biggest lessons by finding his own teachers.

"I asked a very successful guy, 'What's the best advice you can give me?' and he said, 'Simon, always know when to leave the fair.' And I think that's good advice. Something inside you just says, 'You know what, it's time to go.' Without any regrets whatsoever."

PEOPLE While Charlie Sheen continues to rack up the tabloid covers for his recent exploits in Las Vegas, ex-wife Denise Richards isn't enjoying having to deal with the fallout.

"I try my best to keep that quiet from our daughters because, you know, this is something I've never dealt with in my life until this situation. I'm learning how to deal with it. Just keeping a lid on it for our kids has been my main priority. It does become difficult."

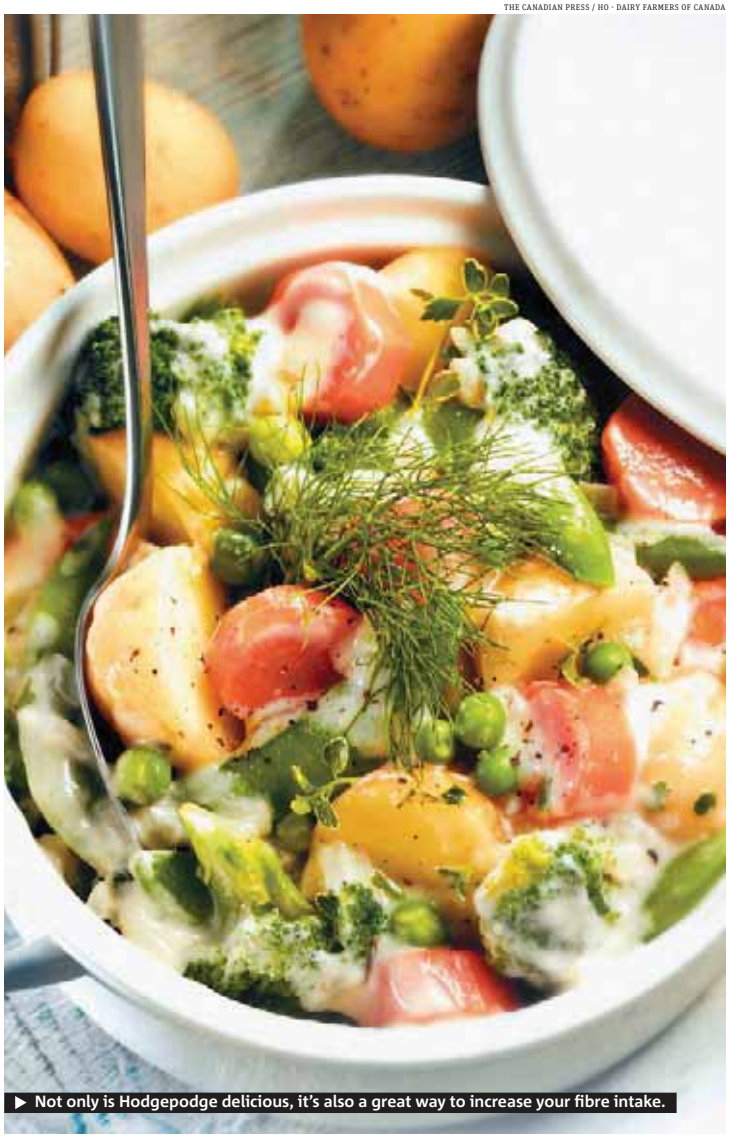
The traditional Maritimes Hodgepodge dish boasts an array of vegetables in a light sauce

THE CANADIAN PRESS / HO - DAIRY FARMERS OF CANADA



Not only is Hodgepodge delicious, it's also a great way to increase your fibre intake.

This traditional dish from the Maritimes, called Hodgepodge, features a colourful array of vegetables in a light sauce that elevates the everyday to something scrumptious.

Most Canadians don't get enough fibre, which can be found in whole grains, beans, nuts, seeds, vegetables and fruit. This dish will help your family up its daily quota, in the most delicious way.

Add a dark rye or wholewheat roll, and for dessert, go for frozen yogurt topped with frozen raspberries. This is a healthful and easy supper that the whole family will love.

Preparation:

1. In a large saucepan, combine potatoes and carrots; add cold water to cover by 5 cm (2 inches) and 2 ml (1/2 tsp) of the salt. Cover and bring to a boil over high heat.
2. Uncover, reduce heat and boil gently for 10 minutes or until potatoes are almost tender. Add broccoli, sugar snap peas and green peas; boil for 3 minutes or until tender-crisp. Drain; set aside.
3. Return pan to medium heat; melt butter. Sauté onion, tarragon, remaining salt and pepper for about 5 minutes or until softened. Stir in flour; saute for 30 seconds. Gradually whisk in heated milk and mustard. Bring to a boil, whisking constantly; reduce heat to medium and simmer, whisking, for about 2 minutes or until thickened.
4. Remove from heat; stir in vegetables and toss to coat. Season to taste with salt and pepper.
5. Transfer to a warmed serving bowl and sprinkle with fresh herbs, if using. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dr. Ali Zentner, an obesity specialist, shares her tips

If you're looking to shed some extra pounds, take a few pointers from Dr. Ali Zentner, an obesity specialist who lost 160 pounds.

She, and a team of experts, is currently helping the residents of Taylor, B.C. to shed the pounds on CBC's Village on a Diet. Here are some of her tips.

Don't drink your calories

Cut back on soft drinks, sugar in your coffee, juice and all other sugared drinks. Most of us wouldn't consider eating four chocolate bars a day, but end up drinking the caloric equivalent. When you're thirsty, opt for water instead.

Get some sleep

Studies have shown getting a solid eight hours of sleep reduces your risk of obesity and high blood pressure. Make sure to take time for some z's. You will not regret it.

Organize a healthy dessert contest at work

Invite co-workers to bring in their favourite healthy dessert and include the nutritional information on a card. It's a fun team building activity — and it won't add to the waistline!

Twist and shout

Put your favourite music on and shake your rump for 10 minutes straight in your living room. Dancing is a great way to raise your heart rate and get all your core muscles working. Don't forget to sing your heart out, too.

Set goals

It's always a good idea to set a goal when trying to lose weight.

Check-out tips

Registered Dietitian Maria Thomas offers these grocery shopping tips to help you avoid temptation at the check-out line.

- Before you shop, take an inventory of everything you have in your fridge. Do you have enough fruits and vegetables? What about whole grains and lean protein?
- Make a list of what you need and stick to it.
- Eat before you go — otherwise impulse items will find their way into your cart.
- Only shop the perimeter of the store where the fruits and vegetables, dairy, meat and bread are found. Avoid the middle aisles filled with processed and packaged foods.

When the weather is horrid at home and the boss has been screaming at you for that budget report, the temptation on a hard-earned holiday can be to just hit the sunlounger with your favourite novel and a strong drink and not move for two weeks. Fair enough, and if you're in Barbados - probably on the West or South coasts, with their soft sandy beaches and sea the temperature of bath water — then that temptation can be overwhelming.

But, on at least one day of your holiday, you really should hire a car — driving is on the left, as in the UK — and head east to the "real" Barbados where few tourists go. Pass fields of sugar cane (on the way, pop into the Four Square rum factory, to see how some of that sugar is put to good use) and then pause at Crane Beach in the parish of St Philip, with its cliff-top hotel (where you could have lunch at D'Onofrio's Italian restaurant, or French-style L'Azure), and a rough and tumble sea that is great for body boarding.

▶ The pristine beach at Bottom Bay.

Or a bit further up the coast search out unspoiled Foul Bay or Bottom Bay. Both are used more by locals than visitors but everyone's welcome - bring your own food for a lunchtime picnic because there are no shops nearby. At Bottom Bay the wide beach is protected by high coral cliffs and here the Atlantic waves are much stronger than on the Caribbean side, so stick to the beach.

Carry on round the coast on the narrow roads to Bathsheba where you might see some experienced surfers hanging ten at the 'Soup Bowl'.

It's much more rugged than the west coast, and great for a walk to blow away the cobwebs before you retire back to your sunlounger and rum punch.

UFC adds to card for Toronto's first event

The UFC has fleshed out its Toronto card, confirming that Canadians Mark Bocek, Jason (The Athlete) MacDonald and Sean Pierson will fight April 30 at the Rogers Centre.

The UFC's "Ultimate Insider" report on its website also said unbeaten light-heavyweight Phil (Mr. Wonderful) Davis will face Matt (The Hammer) Hamill at UFC 129, the promotion's first visit to Ontario.

Bocek, a lightweight from Woodbridge, will take on former WEC champion Ben (Smooth) Henderson while MacDonald tackles Ryan Jensen in a middleweight bout and Pierson goes against welterweight Brian Foster.

UFC president Dana White previously confirmed UFC Hall of Famer Randy (The Natural) Couture will meet former light-heavyweight titleholder Lyoto (The Dragon) Machida in the co-main event.

The UFC boss has also said the Toronto card will feature the UFC debut of featherweight champion Jose Aldo, who formerly held the WEC 145-pound title.

White said Aldo will face Mark (The Machine) Hominick of Thamesford, Ont., providing the Canadian beats George Roop on Saturday's "Fight for the Troops 2" card at Fort Hood in Killeen, Texas.

White has not said whom Aldo would face if Hominick loses.

The Toronto card also features a bout between Toronto welterweight Claude (The Prince) Patrick and Daniel (Ninja) Roberts.

Roberts (12-1) announced news of the Toronto matchup via Twitter.

Tyler Bozak's first goal in nine games proves to be the game winner

The Toronto Maple Leafs got J.S. Giguere a win he wanted more than most.

Mikhail Grabovski scored twice and linemate Clarke MacArthur added a goal and two assists Thursday as the Maple Leafs rallied to beat the Anaheim Ducks 5-2.

It was a solid bounce-back performance just 24 hours after Toronto was hammered 7-0 by the New York Rangers. The game carried some extra importance for Giguere because he spent a decade with the Ducks organization before being dealt to the Leafs last Jan. 31.

Giguere didn't need to be spectacular, but he made a nice save on Bobby Ryan early in the third period when it was still a one-goal game.

Dan Sexton and Brandon McMillan replied for Anaheim (26-20-4).

Mr. Rodgers' neighbourhood

- Aaron Rodgers gives Green Bay fans a reason to forget Brett Favre
- QB appreciates the praise but doesn't think he deserves it yet

▶ Aaron Rodgers greets fans in Green Bay.

Favre's take

Brett Favre interjected himself into the conversation about the Bears-Packers rivalry this week.

- In an email to ESPN, Favre said Rodgers is "the best" quarterback remaining in the playoffs.
- "I think they will win it all! I hope they do, if you are wondering," Favre said in his email to the network.
- When asked about Favre's comment, Rodgers' response was upbeat but brief. "Any time I'm getting a comment like that from somebody who's had a ton of success in the NFL, it's quite an honour," Rodgers said.

On the list of Aaron Rodgers' accomplishments in three seasons as the Green Bay Packers' starting quarterback, one stands out as being something that really didn't seem possible when he first took over as the starter.

He made Brett Favre an afterthought in Green Bay.

Going into Sunday's NFC championship game against the Bears in Chicago, Rodgers is the undisputed face of the Packers and his success in the playoffs is winning over almost anyone who still had doubts about his place among the NFL's elite quarterbacks.

"I think he's definitely the quarterback we all hoped he would become," coach Mike McCarthy said. "He was a young talented quarterback, had a very bright future, and now we're in Year 3 of his development and he's definitely developed into a special player.

"He does it the right way. He'll break them down physically, mentally. He's in a great rhythm right now."

He certainly made a believer out of veteran Packers receiver Donald Driver.

"I love him," Driver said. "I don't know if you can put words to it but he's playing like one of the best quarterbacks in the game, if not the best."

Rodgers might not have made the Pro Bowl this season, but there's no shortage of praise coming his way after a dominant performance in last Saturday's playoff rout of Atlanta.

Rodgers has been particularly sharp since he sustained his second concussion of the season and sat out the Packers' Dec. 19 loss at New England.

Bears linebacker Lance Briggs said he isn't bothered by all the attention on Rodgers.

"No, that's all it is, it's a sign of respect for what the Packers and Aaron Rodgers have been able to do," Briggs said. "They have been doing a lot of that this whole year. Credit is due." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TO BE CHAMPION OF A NATION MEANS A LOT

In a country that communes with winter like few others, a national championship involving ice really means something.

So it is that the Brier, which pits province against province, becomes paramount in the sport of curling. For Canadian women, the Tournament of Hearts is equally as treasured. There are many Canadian "cups" to be won — lacrosse has the Mann and the Minto, while junior hockey has the Memorial. They are all national gatherings that crown the best from various regions of a diverse land.

It's hard to beat the tradition and scope of the Canadian figure skating championship.

"It defines the excellence of our sport," says Debbi Wilkes of Skate Canada. She's a two-time national champion in pairs competition and won a silver medal at the 1964 Innsbruck Olympics with her teammate Guy Revell.

"The Canadian championship is the culmination of participation and achievement," Wilkes continues. "It's the discovery of what hard work can mean."

At this year's Canadian figure skating championship in Victoria, 300 skaters ranging in age from 12 to 26 will compete for national titles. They've emerged from 1,200 clubs across the country and represent the elite of more than 180,000 registered figure skaters coast to coast to coast.

"That means when we introduce a winner here as the 'champion of Canada' it really carries weight," Wilkes stresses.

And while Patrick Chan and the stars of international acclaim will receive the lion's share of the attention, there are many more winter warriors who covet victory on Canada's main stage of skating.

"It's precious," says Tracy Wilson.

She is a seven-time national champion, an Olympic medallist in ice dance, a coach and broadcaster. In short, Wilson has seen it all when it comes to this sport, but each time she arrives at this national gathering she is renewed.

"It's huge," she says. "To be the Canadian champion is why you skate."

For a big country it is an enormous event.

It is understandable that if you live in a land where ice and skates are a comfortable fit, to be the best of the best is the greatest prize of all.

'Plenty of teams' still interested in Anthony

His meeting with the Nets' owner cancelled, Denver Nuggets star Carmelo Anthony is not talking.

Anthony left practice Thursday without speaking to reporters a day after New Jersey Nets owner Mikhail Prokhorov called off negotiations with the Nuggets and cancelled a trip to Denver to meet the all-star forward.

Nuggets general manager Masai Ujiri said Wednesday night he's in discussions with "plenty of teams" about Anthony.

Anthony's future has been a hot topic since he declined to sign a three-year, $65-million US extension with Denver last summer.

With the Nets out of the picture for now, the Knicks are expected to get back in the mix with other possibilities including the Bulls, Mavericks and Rockets.

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 An offer that arrives out of the blue will cheer you up today. In fact, as far as luck goes one of the best times of the year is about to begin. You must have done something to deserve it.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 You will get the chance to improve the lot of a friend or relative who has been feeling a bit under the weather of late. Your outgoing, friendly manner is precisely what they need to get their act together.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 It's not your fault that something went wrong, but you can be sure that those who are to blame will try to lay some of the guilt at your door. Don't you date let them.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Almost anyone will do almost anything you ask of them. It seems the whole world wants to do you a favour, and being the nice guy you are, you see no reason to deny them what makes them happy!

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 If you don't feel much like making an effort today by all means hold off until your levels of energy and enthusiasm are a bit higher. There is no point doing a job reluctantly and making a poor show of it.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 This is potentially a good time for money matters and business issues, so keep your eyes and ears open and be ready to act when opportunity arises.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Set goals you can reach without too much of an effort today. Better still, use your charm and communication skills to get other people to do the hard stuff for you.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Don't be too tough on yourself today. Not even a Scorpio can get it right every time, so if something you have been working on goes a bit off track don't make a big fuss about it.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 If you are told something you don't need to know today, or if you overhear a whispered conversation that was not meant for your ears, it might just be best to forget about it.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 This is the ideal day to remind those you love just how much they mean to you and just how much you appreciate the efforts they have made on your behalf.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You may find it hard to trust someone you work or do business with, but what choice do you have? By all means keep your wits about you but don't make it obvious you think they may try to cheat you.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 You will get support today from someone you would never have expected to be on your side. Is his or her interest genuine? It is, so don't be suspicious. SALLY BROMPTON
